IKE, MACMILLAN TALKS TONIGHT

State Authority Agrees on Big Road Program

HARRISBURG (UP) — The state Highway and Bridge Authority has agreed on a $182,600,000 road improvement and rebuilding program in Pennsylvania and borrowing of another 40 million dollars to finance the work in conjunction with federal aid.

The authority funds, with matching federal money, will finance the actual $153 million dollar cost of construction but the Highways Department will have to foot about eight million dollars in property damages. The federal government will contribute the remainder of the property damage costs of settlement.

Department officials argued Tuesday against covering the property damage costs on the grounds that department funds already were earmarked for other projects. But Highways Secretary Lewis M. Stevens agreed to taking over the costs although he said it will mean some of the department's road - improvement work will have to be postponed temporarily.

One authority member, Sen. Henry J. Propert (R-Montgomery) voted against the majority.

Terms Program 'Confusing'

"I'm not prepared to vote for the confusing program which has been presented here today," Propert said.

The agency apparently had been prepared to reduce the size of its program so that it could include property damages. But a two-hour discussion resulted in the authority board deciding that none of the projects should be placed in a second category to be started only if money was available after the primary projects were completed.

These interstate road projects are included in the program decided upon. The federal government will contribute 90 per cent of their total costs:

—Completion of 34 miles of the Erie Throughway at a cost of 40 million dollars.

—A 1.25 mile addition to the Penn-Lincoln Parkway in Pittsburgh, $1,850,000.

—Four-lane divided highway from Bentleyville to Traffic Route 51 in Washington and Westmoreland counties, 16 miles, $4,750,000.

—About eight more miles of the Schuylkill Expressway in Philadelphia and Bucks counties, $18,800,000.

—Eastern approaches to the South Bridge in Harrisburg, $6,200,000.

—Stroudsburg by-pass, four million dollars.

—New road north of Scranton to the New York state line, 32 miles, $22,500,000.

These are primary road projects on which the state and fed-

U. S. Will Pay Conversion of Relocated 31

The state Highway and Bridge Authority today announced that the federal government has allocated $4,750,000 to convert a section of relocated Route 31 to a "limited access" highway.

N. G. Bell, district highway engineer, said the money will be used to construct marginal roads and interchanges which will be made necessary by the limited access ruling.

A 16-mile stretch of relocated Route 31 from Bentleyville to traffic Route 51 will be included in the approved project.

Highway officials have indicated that conversion of the four-lane highway will begin next year. Governor Geroge M. Leader approved the limited access plan on Sept. 11.

When completed, new Route 31 will carry traffic from the New Stanton interchange on the Turnpike to Route 40 near Washington, Pa. The entire length will be limited access, with entry at only designated points.

A group of citizens owning property along the highway had attempted to block the limited access ruling and presented objections at public hearings.

However the plan was approved by the governor, thereby making the road eligible for funds under the federal system of highways.

No School Here Tomorrow P. M.

All Monessen public schools will be dismissed tomorrow afternoon so that teachers will be able to attend the third professional education workshop here.

Co-sponsored by the Monessen school district and the Monessen Education Association, more than 150 public school teachers and administrators will hear programs conducted by visiting educators.

New bus schedules have been released by Dr. Joseph J. Pallone, school superintendent. Buses will leave the Vocational, Linden and Jefferson schools at 11:30 a. m. and from the high school at 12 noon.

Lunch will be held in the cafeteria with the meetings to begin at 1 p. m.

Zoning Changes Revealed

"The Monessen Planning Commission and City Council certainly have no intentions of putting small commercial firms out of business under the proposed zoning code for the City," Frank P. Ezerski, solicitor for both the Commission and Council, said at a meeting of the latter this morning.

Ezerski stated the first drafts of the proposed zoning code included some provisions for the eventual removal of non-conforming commercial structures in areas classified as residential, but "I have been informed these provisions will be deleted from the proposed ordinance when the Commission meets publicly on Nov. 7."

Continuing, Ezerski said, "the Commission, after receiving both personal and written protests about the non-conforming provisions dealing with the eventual elimination of small businesses in residential areas, has informed me and also members of Council that this section of the ordinance will be deleted."

Stay in Business

"This means," the solicitor said, "small businesses such as grocery stores, dairy bars, neighborhood bars, etc., will be permitted to stay in business indefinitely. Persons in these businesses will also be permitted to sell their businesses to others without restrictions, the Commission has informed me."

Mayor Hugo J. Parente and Councilmen John Kotch Jr., David Victoria and John Molnar all went on record as saying they were "not interested in putting anyone out of business now or ever." Councilman David Canova was absent.

The mayor and other Council members also went on record as saying they know, too, that the Planning Commission is doing a "good job and one aimed at bettering Monessen. It doesn't intend hurting anyone."

Parente said the zoning ordinance still is in the planning stages and won't be presented to Council for action until after all the public hearings are completed.

"I urge everyone to attend these meetings. The Commission is holding these meetings to accept recommendations and criticism from the public. The commission doesn't want to rush this thing through and neither does Council. I want to point out and stress that we have no intention of putting anyone out of business."

Stephen Sinchak, local real estate man and owner of the Duquesne Hotel, addressed Council and said he intends completely rebuilding, adding to or remodeling the hotel but "the zoning ordinance has certain restrictions that will not permit me to do so."

He was informed to present a

TWO-WAY TRAFFIC ON SCHOONMAKER AVE.—That's two-way traffic you see at the busy intersection of Schoonmaker Ave. in downtown Monessen. Ordinarily the street is one-way, but police have rerouted traffic to permit blacktop paving of Donner Ave. Despite the heavy load of cars, little congestion was reported today by police. The Donner Ave. paving will be completed tomorrow if weather permits, according to State Highway Department officials.

Few Traffic Snarls Despite City Detours

Despite detours on both of Monessen's downtown streets, police reported few traffic snarls today.

"For the most part, traffic is moving as well as can be expected," said Police Chief Michael Kuvinka. "The only real congestion is occurring when the mill changes shifts and that's a more-or-less normal situation."

Kuvinka said state Highway Department officials have promised to have the Donner Avenue blacktop paving completed by tomorrow evening if the weather permits. That will clear up most of the downtown congestion.

Workers blacktopped a section of Donner Ave. from 12th to 6th Streets yesterday. They hope to reach 2nd St. today, then complete the project to Oneida St. tomorrow.

Other Detour Tomorrow

"We are rerouting traffic over Schoonmaker Ave. today from 2nd to 7th Streets," said Kuvinka. "Tomorrow we'll reroute traffic from Oneida to 3rd St."

According to Kuvinka, motorists are obeying the temporary traffic regulations and are cooperating in full. He pointed out that completed sections of Donner Ave. are not reopened immediately because the blacktop substance requires six hours to settle properly.

The west entrance to the city was blocked off on Monday as the Frank Donatelli Co. started working on a four block area of Schoonmaker Ave. The old brick pavement has already been removed and preparations are being made for concrete paving.

This detour has forced persons entering the city from the west to travel by way of the Monessen Highway.

Three Companies Fight Blaze Near Perryopolis

Three fire companies fought a stubborn blaze at Tristani's Service Station on Route 51, near Perryopolis this morning for almost two hours before bringing it under control.

Firemen from Perryopolis, Belle Vernon and North Belle Vernon responded to the alarm at approximately 9:15 o'clock this morning and battled the fire until about 11 o'clock.

The interior of the garage was reported gutted, in a blaze which was fed by burning automobile tires stacked on a rack inside the garage.

The firemen listed the probable cause of the fire as a defective flu on a stove used to heat the garage.

Ligonier Girl Wins Telethon

A Ligonier High School girl, Shirley Johnston, has won a trip to Rome at Christmas time, for guessing the closest to the exact amount of money pledged in a recent Variety Club Telethon, it was announced today.

The Telethon was held last June in Pittsburgh for the benefit of the Variety Club's camp for handicapped children. Actual amount of pledges collected as of ct. 10 was $81,311.94.

Other winners included:

William Williams, 112 Linden Ave., Monessen and Fred Cecil, Smithton.

Four Persons Hurt in Crash Near Fellsburg

Four Connellsville persons were injured yesterday at 12:15 p.m. in a truck-car collision at the intersection of Route 51 and the Fellsburg Rd. in Rostraver Twp.

Rushed to Charleroi-Monessen Hospital were Bertha Mae Baker, 39, possible fractured ribs; Mabel Sadler, 46, possible fractured skull; James Strader, 75, undetermined injuries; and Nola Brown, 70, cuts and bruises of the hands and wrists.

All four were later transferred to Connellsville Hospital.

State Police said the car, operated by Mrs. Baker, was struck by a truck driven by Frank Rose, 28, of 205 Fourth Ave., Monongahela. According to police, the Baker car was travelling south on Route 51 while Rose was turning off the Fellsburg Rd. onto Route 51 at the time of the mishap.

Rose, who was not injured, will be charged with failure to yield the right-of-way, police said. Damages to the two vehicles was estimated at $600.

State Police also reported a two-car collision on Route 88 near Craven's Hill today at 8:35 a.m.

Drivers were identified as Louis Rozzi, 35, of 1201 Country Club Rd., Monongahela; and William M. Mazanitz, 43, of 908 Fallowfield Ave., Charleroi. Both escaped injury, according to the police report.

Police said Rozzi, in passing Mazanitz, apparently cut in too fast, striking the latter car and forcing it into a utility pole. Damage was estimated by police at $1100.

To Discuss Red Challenges of Sputnik, Syria

WASHINGTON (UP) — British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan and President Eisenhower flew here today for summit talks on Russia's twin challenge — Sputnik and Syria.

Eisenhower returned from a New York speaking engagement at 8:45 a. m. e.d.t., with plans to lead a "chins up" campaign to bolster America's confidence in its economic, scientific and military strength.

Macmillan landed 30 minutes later, on a direct flight from London. It was reported that he carried concrete proposals for Anglo-American partnership in space missile development, stronger inter - allied scientific cooperation through NATO, and a common front against Russia's Middle East propaganda offensive.

The two leaders will meet in three days of informal talks beginning at 6 p.m. e.d.t.

Missile Fired

A cheering note was supplied on the eve of the talks in the firing of a U.S. Jupiter 1,500-mile ballistic missile at Cape Canaveral, Fla. The administration grabbed the offensive in the propaganda war with Russia over space rocketry by informing the world for the first time that one of its intermediate range ballistic missile tests was successful and had hit the target.

Both American and British officials hoped to capitalize on the goodwill created by Queen Elizabeth's visit to this country to hammer out important new Anglo-American accords on major world issues.

British Foreign Minister Selwyn Lloyd, who has been here several days, and U.S. Secretary of State John Foster Dulles were scheduled to attend tonight's opening meeting and an informal dinner to follow.

Macmillan's visit was arranged soon after Russia's earth satellite was launched Oct. 4. It was announced while Britain's Queen Elizabeth II was visiting North America.

While the "big two" talks were expected to place considerable emphasis on speeding Western military and scientific advances in the light of the Soviet achievement, the occasion will give the two leaders and their advisers a chance to canvass the explosive Middle East situation.

Opposes Summit Talks

Diplomats were cool to a report from London that Macmillan will urge a new top level meeting with the Russians. The Eisenhower administration opposes three-power "summit" talks at a time when the Reds are likely to be tougher negotiators than before their satellite success.

It seems likely President Eisenhower is ready to assure Macmillan the administration will seek amendments in the 1946 Atomic Energy Act when Congress convenes in January. Such amendments would clear the way for closer nuclear cooperation with Britain and other Free Nations.

President Plans To Tell People Defense Secrets

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Eisenhower returned to the capital today to begin mapping plans for a "chins up" campaign to bolster the nation's confidence in its economic, scientific and military strength.

The President announced his intention to personally lead such a campaign in an address at New York Tuesday night. He said he would begin shortly a series of speeches aimed at strengthening the faith of the nation in its ability to meet the challenges it faces.

The President was not specific, but the United Press learned that his speeches will be delivered in several widely separated parts of the country.

He outlined his "chins up" campaign Tuesday night in a speech before a Waldorf Astoria Hotel audience of 1,500 persons gathered under the auspices of the National Fund for Medical Education.

Ostensibly the occasion for the dinner Tuesday night was to honor Alfred P. Sloan, Jr., retired head of General Motors, for his "outstanding leadership in medical education." Sloan received the Frank H. Lahey Memorial Award established in 1954 to honor the late, eminent Boston surgeon and founder of the Lahey Clinic.

Shortly before he spoke, however, the White House released a new version of the opening portion of his speech, and when it was delivered, the Chief Executive elaborated on his plan to go to the people in an effort to generate public confidence in the govern-

Local Man Is Back in Jail On Watch Charge

A Monessen man was back in jail today for apparently not "watching" his behavior.

Police arrested Mark Dawkins, 33, of 119 Pomona St., early today and charged him with the theft of a wrist watch.

Dawkins was picked up in connection with a similar crime on Sept. 6.

Police said they acted on a complaint of Joseph Kurtak, 704 East Luce Ave., Monessen, who told them he met Dawkins early today on 12th St. and Morgan Ave. The two men walked together to the corner of Schoonmaker Ave., where Dawkins suddenly grabbed Kurtak's wrist watch and raced away, according to Kurtak.

Police picked up Dawkins a short time later wearing the watch.

On Sept. 6, Dawkins was arrested for allegedly jerking off a watch owned by George Gettko, 240 Page St. Monessen. That case is still pending in Westmoreland County Criminal Court.

Police said Dawkins will be charged with larceny.

Man Suffers Cuts In Auto Accident

A Monessen man suffered facial cuts and bruises early today in a head-on auto accident.

Pete E. Dzimiera, 35, of 221 Knox Ave., was reported in good condition at Charleroi-Monessen Hospital following an accident at the intersection of Montraver Dr. and Rostraver Rd. in Monessen.

Police said the driver of the other car was Lawrence Nessamar, 1251 Rostraver St., Monessen. Nessamar told police he suffered a head injury.

Women Shine as Grid Experts

When it comes to picking football upsets, the women have no peers.

This fact was proved again the past week when two feminine prognosticators came out on top in The Daily Independent football contest. They weren't the least bit bothered by a long list of fantastic upsets.

Mary Ann Bodoia, 404 Motheral Ave., Monessen, won top prize money of $15 by selecting 9 winners in 12 games. She successfully predicted Purdue's win over Michigan State and Illinois' conquest of Minnesota!

To top it off, Mary Ann is a ninth grade student at Monessen Junior High and a comparative newcomer to the business of picking football winners.

Mrs. Betty Martinet, 100 Knox Ave., Monessen, also guessed 9 of 12 games. However she was obliged to accept second place money of $7.50 under contest rules. Mrs. Martinet felt 27 points would be the highest score by a winning team while the first place winner picked 34. The correct total was 47.

Third place winner was Max Matko, 960 Graham Ave., Monessen, who guessed correctly on all but four games. Matko was right on the Illinois triumph but he miscued on favorites Michigan

Woman Hit By Auto on Vernon Street

Mrs. Ruby Owens, of 625 Broad Ave., Belle Vernon, suffered abrasions about the body when reportedly struck by an automobile, driven by Francis McKevitt, 26, of 202 Main St., Belle Vernon about 4 p. m. yesterday.

According to police reports, Mrs. Owens parked her car and stepped out on the traffic side at the corner of Grant St. and Broad Ave. McKevitt's car approached from behind her, and was unable to swerve away in time, police said.

Mrs. Owens was treated at a nearby physician's office and sent home.

Witnesses also reported to North Belle Vernon Police Chief Ed Anthony that McKevitt was traveling at a very slow rate of speed," not more than 10 or 15 miles an hour."

U. S. Fires Ballistic Missile 'On Target' at Florida Base

WASHINGTON (UP) — The United States seized the propaganda offensive today in the battle with Russia for space rocket supremacy. It told the world it has successfully fired a 1,500-mile Jupiter ballistic missile "on target."

It is the first time the Defense Department has ever given any material information on a missile shoot. The abrupt departure from strictest secrecy which marked other firings is an apparent attempt to restore public confidence in the U.S. missile program as well as warn Russia of its capabilities.

There have been some sharp congressional attacks against "unnecessary" U.S. missile secrecy since Russia launched an earth satellite with something believed close to an intercontinental ballistic missile.

Observers who saw the Army's intermediate range Jupiter leap into the sky over Cape Canaveral, Fla., Tuesday night said it was one of the biggest missiles fired there recently. It is expected to set the stage for test firing the Vanguard missile which will attempt to launch a U.S. satellite next year.

In its announcement, the Pentagon withheld the distance flown by the Jupiter as secret. But it said: "The missile flew its prescribed course and impacted in the pre-selected target area."

Defense Secretary Neil H. McElroy previously has said there would be a speed-up in testing the Jupiter and the Air Force's Thor intermediate range missile to determine which one would be adopted for operational use. The testing is expected to take several months.

Murray Snyder, assistant defense secretary for public relations, Tuesday night said the department had been making information available on new weapons within security bounds. But now the Canaveral range tests have "reached a stage where certain additional information may now be made public."

The White House, however, made the final decision on giving out the information, it was learned. The President said Tuesday night in New York he would go before the American people soon to try and strengthen their confidence in U.S. scientific ability and in the domestic economy.

Saud to Mediate In Syria

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UP) —Syria, which has rejected all mediation efforts in its dispute with Turkey, today reluctantly agreed to give King Saud of Saudi Arabia three days to settle it.

The Syrians did not say they accepted Saud's mediation offer, which already has been agreed to by Turkey. But they voted for adjournment of the United Nations General Assembly debate on the Middle East "war crisis" until Friday.

The adjournment proposal came at the end of one of the most menacing attacks on the United States Russia has delivered in the U.N. since the height of the cold war.

Charges U.S. Instigation

In it, Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko charged that Turkey, at American instigation, was ready to attack Syria with 1,300 warplanes, 1,400 tanks, 3,500 artillery pieces and other equipment totalling about $ 2 billion worth supplied by the United States and not yet paid for.

U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge, appealing for the assembly to adjourn proceedings to give King Saud time to mediate, accused Gromyko of "playing a game."

Despite "soothing statements," Gromyko said, the United States was attempting to have Turkey start a major war and drag in the entire North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

"Merely for the record," said Lodge, "I will say that the heart of the North Atlantic Treaty is the statement that an attack on one is an attack on all In other words, we stay where we are unless we are attacked...

NATO Result of Red Expansion

"Remember that the North Atlantic Treaty was only evolved after the Soviet Union had gobbled up Lithuania, Latvia, Estonia, Poland, Czechoslovakia, Hungary, Bulgaria, Romania and Albania. I am not sure that I mentioned them all."

Paraguayan Ambassador Pacifico Montero e Vargas finally proposed an indefinite adjournment in the "hope that mediation will be successful."

The Syrian amendment was approved, 33-32 with 15 abstentions.

ment's ability to cope with the problems of today.

On the particular point of the state of the domestic economy, Eisenhower said he was glad to hear Sloan say in his speech accepting the award that he could not understand why Americans were apprehensive about the state of the economy since it was "actually the greatest thing man ever produced."

"Our responsibilities and opportunities abroad; the strength and character of our domestic economy; the character and power of our defense programs, the right of people to confidence in these strengths."

"These," the President said, "are some of the subjects about which during the ensuing weeks, I shall seek opportunities to talk with the American people, telling them of my beliefs and my determinations in these matters.

"I have unshakable faith in the capacity of an informed, free citizenry to solve every problem involved."

Stieska Makes Unusual Plea For His 'Slate' of Democrats

The upcoming general election campaign in Monessen took on a paradoxical twist today.

John R Stieska, Republican candidate for mayor, began distributing campaign literature which contained this unusual and startling advice:

"You can elect all these registered Democrats by voting straight Republican."

Then followed the names of Stieska; John Spielman who is running for treasurer; James Tucci, running for controller; William Snyder and John Molnar, running for council; and Clifford Learnard and Emil Beck, running for school director.

All of those candidates are registered Democrats. They won the GOP nominations through write-in votes There were no Republican candidates on the primary ballot in Monessen.

Of the "slate" proposed by Stieska, Spielman, Tucci, Molnar and Beck will also appear as the Democratic candidates.

Snyder and Learnard were defeated in the Democratic primary. Both have indicated that they will not campaign actively in the general election.

Stieska lost the Democratic nomination to Mayor Hugo Parente, but he earned the Republican nod after a long and involved legal dispute which was finally settled by the state Supreme Court

After the court decision, Stieska promised to wage an active campaign as the Republican candidate.

Loughran for Ticket

Attorney Joseph M. Loughran, who challenged the Democratic courthouse machine in the primary election, said today that he will "actively support" the Democratic ticket in the Nov. 5 general election in Westmoreland County.

"I am a Democrat and I intend to actively support the Democratic ticket," said Loughran, a former assistant district attorney who was unsuccessful in his bid to win a Democratic nomination for common pleas court last May.

"I will especially campaign for the election of the Democratic judge nominees as well as Earl Kiem for district attorney," said Loughran.

In the primary election, Loughran barely lost to the slated Democratic candidates. He waged a vigorous and sometimes bitter battle against the party organization reportedly headed by Chief County Detective Arthur (Buddy) Turner.

There was some speculation that the wounds of that campaign might have encouraged Loughran to support the Republican ticket, either actively or passively. But Loughran made it clear that he has no such intention

Urges GOP Support

The Republican party's policy of balancing the budget and holding-the-line on taxes has saved Pennsylvania from economic chaos, state Rep. Robert Breon told a Republican rally in Baldoc Country Club last night.

Breon predicted that the twin issues of keeping the budget in balance and no increases in state taxes would give the GOP victory in the 1958 gubernatorial campaign.

The young legislator urged Westmoreland county voters to support the county GOP ticket headed by the three judicial candidates, attorneys Avra Pershing Jr., Robert H. Rial and Willis Topper, all of whom were present at the rally.

Referring to his experiences in Harrisburg Breon declared:

"We are not afraid of Dent, Turner and Bauer in Harrisburg, and there is no reason for Republicans to be afraid of them in Westmoreland County." He was referring to three leaders in the Democratic party, Sen. John H Dent, Arthur "Buddy" Turner, chief of county detectives; and Judge Edward G. Bauer

Breon accused Gov George Leader of using his power in Harrisburg to "create a political dynasty at your expense"

Edwin A. Swink, county GOP chairman, told the audience the GOP can "do the job" of electing the Republican ticket if they "get out and work" in spite of the 50,000 registration lead held by the Democrats.

detailed architect's plans of his proposed project in order that Council knows his "exact intentions before a building ermit can be issued"

Kotch and Victoria said the penciled drawings submitted by Sinchak are incomplete and "not very informative"

In other business, Victoria reported on the present resurfacing of Donner Ave. and said the project should be completed by Friday night. He also reported on the widening and repaving of Schoonmaker Ave.

The Streets Department, he said, is now tearing up bricks and curbing from 17th street as the first phase of the Schoonmaker Ave. project. Later bricks and curbing will be removed to near Sixth St.

Victoria said the brick and curbing is being salvaged by the City He urged the public not to ask for the salvaged materials, stating they will be used for paving alleys and other projects.

Council passed a resolution requesting the state Highways Department, which handles the maintenance of Schoonmaker Ave., to expedite the present project "at least from 17th to 12th streets in order to speed up the flow of traffic."

Council asked for the cooperation and patience from the public during the present streets improvement projects.

"We don't want to work any undue hardship on anyone," Victoria said.

Skirpan Real Estate Agency informed Council it has taken steps to prevent the unauthorized dumping of rubbish on a portion of ground it owns on Grand Blvd, near Watkins Ave. Council protested the dumping in a letter from the solicitor's office earlier this month.

Famed Singer To Be Highlight Of Civic Music

One of television's greatest singing stars, Jerome Hines, will highlight the coming season for the Monessen-Belle Vernon Civic Music Association.

Hines, famed bass-baritone of the Metropolitan Opera and many times star of the "Voice of Firestone" television program, will appear here on Sunday afternoon, Feb. 23.

Those who wish to see Mr. Hines in his Monessen concert had better hurry and enroll for this year's series of concerts which are held at the Monessen High School auditorium.

The membership campaign will end Saturday at 4 p.m.

Only members are admitted to hte concerts, of which there probably will be four, as in previous years.

Some 80 canvassers are at work throughout the Monongahela Valley seeking new members. Officials report that memberships are coming in fast, but ask canvassers to continue an intensive drive so that the goal of 1,000 members is reached by Saturday.

Last year more than 900 enrolled, the highest of any season yet.

Membership Open

The membership is open on a first-come, first-served basis but will be limited to the seating capacity of the auditorium, which is approximately 1,000.

Dues are $6 for adults and $3 for students. Members have the opportunity to designate the types of programs they prefer. These guide the talent committee which meets following the close of the membership drive.

Campaign headquarters is located at Rosenson's Furniture Store, Sixth St. and Donner Ave., and will be open Friday night until 9 p.m. to accommodate late comers.

Campaign headquarters telephone numbers are MU 4-5773 and MU 4-5774.

Mrs. Willard Krasik, Thomas Preston and John Werton are heading the membership drive under the general supervision of Mrs. Paul Latkanich, Association president and James Browning, regional director of Civic Concert Service.

Hines, who in the fall of 1946 won the Metropolitan Opera $1,000 Caruso Award, did not start taking music lessons until he was 16. It was at that time he was asked to leave a glee club because he could not carry a tune.

By the time he received his B. A. degree in 1943, he had already appeared in the Los Angeles Philharmonic at the Hollywood Bowl. In 1953 he became the first American to sing the title role in the opera, "Boris Godunov."

Despite a busy singing schedule at the Met and on the concert stage, in addition to his numerous other interests, he has recently diverted his talents to putting into music the Life of Christ, which will comprise three operas when completed.

CITY LANDMARK SOLD — This three story brick residence, built in 1927 by the Pittsburgh Steel Co. for its production executives, has been sold to Dr. Eugene O'Leary, a Monessen physician. Purchase price for the Graham Ave. building was $30,000, according to court records.

Three Persons File Suits

Three persons have filed damage suits in Westmoreland County Court as the result of a traffic accident on the Monessen-Webster Road (Route 906) earlier this year.

The plaintiffs are Beatrice McCoy and her minor son, Frank, of Monessen, and John W. Wilkerson, Warwood, West Va.

Named as defendant is Andrew C. Nagel, of near West Newton.

According to the complaint an auto owned by Nagel and operated by Donald R. Stewart struck the Wilkerson car near Monessen last Feb. 16.

Wilkerson claims he suffered severe physical injuries and his car was wrecked. Both Beatrice McCoy and her son, apparently passengers in one of the two vehicles involved, also claim they suffered severe injuries as a result of the wreck.

The program is under the supervision of a steering committee composed of Dena Morris, Waynesburg, president of the Women's Dormitory Council; Emma Chew, Brownsville, president of the Traveling Women's Council; Richard Miller, Sharon, president of the Men's Dormitory Council; and Walter Strycula, West Brownsville, president of the Traveling Men's Council. Skirpan said working kits will be distributed during the luncheon and complete details of the drive will be outlined.

Pittsburgh Steel House Sold to Local Doctor

A three-story brick residence—one of Monessen's landmarks — has been sold to Dr. Eugene O'Leary by the Pittsburgh Steel Co., it was learned today.

According to court records, the purchase price was $30,000.

The building, located on Graham Ave., was built in 1927 by Pittsburgh Steel as a residence for production executives.

The home has been occupied in turn by W. C. Sutherland, D. P. King, Clyde Butler, J. H. Morrison and P. E. Sance, all top plant executives.

Sance also maintained a home in Charleroi.

The building includes a spacious living room, dining room, kitchen, three bedrooms ond the second floor and two bedrooms on the third floor as well as several utility rooms.

A large lawn and garage complete the property.

Workmen are already busy landscaping the property for the new owner, who reportedly plans to make his residence there.

Hibbs Agency Buys Building On Sixth St.

Hibbs Real Estate and Insurance Agency today announced the purchase of a two-story brick building about Dec. 1.

Miss Catherine Harris and Charles Penwick, co-owners of the Agency said that remodeling work will begin immediately. Both the interior and exterior of the building will be improved.

It is hoped that the new site will be ready by the first of December.

The agency employs a staff of three clerks.

The building was previously occupied by the Mon Valley Wall Paper and Paint store, which recently moved to 455 Donner Ave.

When the Hibbs Agency moves from its present location, the adjoining First Federal Savings and Loan Association plans to expand its offices. The bank also intends to eventually occupy the basement of the building with additional offices.

The building was purchased from the John Menefee Estate for $20,000, according to court records.

Dr. James R. Gemmill exhibited a picture on radiology, depicting the use of X-ray for both diagnostic and treatment purposes in the practice of medicine.

A second picture, exhibited by Harvey Seymour, described the role of steel in modern highways, including its use in construction equipment, in the accessories of the road itself and in the safety guards and devices along the finished pavement.

Two new members, John Fridinger, manager of the G. C. Murphy Co., and Walter Murphy, of Murphy Ford Co., were welcomed to the club.

Guests and visitors included W. C. Tuman and John S. Metz of Charleroi, the Rev. David Dillon, Monessen and James Davidson of Pittsburgh.

Vaccine Plan Is Thwarted

An attempt by the Arnold School Board to have all teachers inoculated with flu vaccine has been thwarted by a ruline of the Westmoreland County Medical Assn.

The directors agreed earlier this month to "sponsor and underwrite" a flu vaccine program for the teachers. It was planned to have school physician, Dr. L. C. Cerase, administer the vaccine.

However the school district dropped the plan when informed that the medical association has banned all mass inoculations.

Who Gains from Higher Steel Prices?

AS WAS BOUND to happen, the Senate's steel-pricing investigation got around the other day to executive salaries and bonuses as factors in inflation.

Senator Estes Kefauver, who has been gunning in these woods before, indicated that executive salaries in the upper reaches acted as "a challenge, a goad, a red flag to labor unions and individual workers to seek and receive all they can".

The senator had already conceded that a good part of the inflationary spiral was due to higher and higher wages, but he was making the additional point that some of the wage demands may have been aided and abetted by the steel companies' heavy handed compensation of their executives.

The investigators had some ripe material before them. Top man in the nation last year was a steel executive who was paid $809,011. His company denied this was at all inflationary since their total executive compensation amounted to less than one per cent of their whole payroll.

One executive appearing before the investigators declared his earnings before taxes had risen from $382,000 in 1950 to $669,000 in 1956. But after taxes the rise was only from $112,000 to $113,000 over the same period.

The observer on the outside of all these goings on can only look on with mounting confusion. He sees the continuous competition among big unions for ever bigger wage increases. He sees the continuous competition among big companies for executives with the talent to run these operations in such a way as to pay the higher wages.

The wage earners say that although they earn more, they can't keep it. The big executive says that although he earned $287,000 more, he kept only $1,000 of it. So despite the fact steel has gone up in price and everyone in the industry got some of it, no one has anything. Our confused observer is the only one who detects any difference — he's paying more for his steel.

He's not likely to say at any one time in any one place, "A plague on both your houses", but when the news stories come out with that report of "slackening demand in the third quarter", all concerned can be advised the goose is tired of producing golden eggs.

A Qualified 'Yes' On the Korean Bonus

VOTERS in the General Election next month will be asked to indicate whether they favor payment of a bonus to veterans of the Korean War. The bonus question will be on paper ballots and on voting machines in the form of an amendment to the State Constitution. We suggest a "YES" vote to authorize payment of the bonus. But frankly the suggestion is made with no great enthusiasm.

The bonus will cost taxpayers some $150 million, an amount which will not be easy to raise. Fortunately the question as it is being put to the voters makes the legislature responsible for funding the bonus. Revenues must be provided from new sources and be earmarked for this specific purpose — otherwise there is to be no bonus.

Such a precaution was not taken with respect to earlier veterans bonuses, it will be recalled, and the commonwealth is still in financial difficulties as a result.

In view of the fact veterans of other wars have been given their money gifts for military service, we do not see that the voters in good conscience can single out Korea veterans for discrimination by denying them a similar gift.

We are not enthusiastic about the bonus because we do not believe military service itself calls for a donation from the state. Defense of the country when that becomes necessary is an obligation which rests upon all of us, and it obliges us to serve as we may. No soldier can be adequately paid for conscientious service to his country, nor should any citizen soldier expect compensation as a hireling.

These bonuses are usually cited as a "token" of the state's debt to its soldier sons. In the first place Pennsylvania cannot afford $150 million tokens: in the second place, the idea is not the child of those whose hearts bleed for the veteran but of those who seek some personal prestige for having arranged a hand-out to a considerable slice of the population.

The Korea bonus follows too closely on the heels of other similar gifts for us to turn it down. It would be well for all concerned, however, that as soon as a decent interval has elapsed we part company with this precedent and stop kidding ourselves.

Who Makes Policy for Democrats?

By LYLE C. WILSON

WASHINGTON (UP) — That question about who makes official policy for the Democratic Party keeps bobbing up for answers as the politicians maneuver for the favor of Negro voters in the 1958 and 1960 elections.

Mr. Wilson

Chairman Paul M. Butler of the Democratic National Committee keeps the question hot and sizzling. Butler's strategy appears to be to keep the civil rights issue boiling within the Democratic Party by public demands for more and better racial integration.

Butler's latest maneuver brought here the members of the Democratic Advisory Council, an organization he created last year after President Eisenhower's lop-sided reelection. Senate and House Democratic leaders refused to join.

When a president of the other political faith occupies the White House, congressional leaders traditionally have held that they were the official policy-makers of their party. It has been traditional, too, that national committees tend to party housekeeping and fund-raising while policy was being made by elected officials.

Butler Bucks Traditions

Butler bucks both traditions. Twice in a short span of weeks, he has arranged for the Democratic Advisory Council to pledge the Democratic Party to all-out support of the Supreme Court's orders on racial integration of the public schools. Southern politicians challenge, resent and defy the council's policy statements.

The statements remain on the record, however, for such effect as they may have on northern Negroes whom the Republicans desperately hope to entice away from the Democrats in the coming elections. The Republican bid for Negro votes, of course, consists, first, of the Supreme Court order, itself, and then of the spectacular fact that the United States Army by order of the Republican President is enforcing racial integration in Central High School, Little Rock, Ark.

Both parties for years have been playing politics with the Negro vote. Franklin D. Roosevelt delivered northern Negroes to the Democratic Party. He gave them better housing and job opportunities but not much more of civil rights. FDR's vote appeal, however, still is strong.

Republicans now offer firm if localized enforcement of racial integration of the public schools. Butler seeks to offset that enchanting Republican enticement by keeping on page one evidence of northern Democratic support for at least as much and maybe more civil rights than Republicans might endorse.

Negroes May Decide

Negro votes in big, industrial states outside the South may determine the winner of next year's congressional election and of the presidential contest in 1960. All hands, including the Negroes, know it.

Butler is not merely reminding the nation of the great North-South division of opinion within the Democratic Party. He is following the 1930 strategy of Democratic Chairman John J. Raskob who went over the heads of congressional Democratic leaders to demand repeal of prohibition.

That caused a blistering outburst of party strife. But it worked. The 1932 party platform junked prohibition despite the battle of Southern statesmen to keep the party tied to the so-called drys.

Southern Democrats accepted repeal of prohibition because the North forced the issue on them.

William Penn's Writings Are Published Here

By UNITED PRESS

Coinciding with the 275th anniversary of William Penn's landing in Pennsylvania in 1682, comes the publication today of "The Witness of William Penn," edited with an introduction by Frederick B. Tolles and E. Gordon Alderfer. The book is issued by The Macmillan Company.

"The Witness of William Penn" is the first broadly representative selection since 1825 of the writings of the imaginative Founding Father of Pennsylvania. It records a life of service combining Christian idealism, practical politics, and a passion for justice under the law. These writings are William Penn's witness to the concer that he had, and the concern of free men everywhere, for Liberty, Fraternity and Righteousness.

In "The Witness of William Penn" the editors place the writings in the context of Penn's career and of the intellectual life of his day. For easier understanding, they have modernized the spelling and punctuation.

Anglo-American Relations Better

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — To get an idea of how much American-British relations have improved as a result of the celestial visit of Sputnik, the royal visit of Elizabeth, and the political visit of Prime Minister MacMillan, you need to go back to the Suez crisis just one year ago when John Foster Dulles was in Walter Reed Hospital for cancer surgery.

Mr. Pearson

Prior to his illness, Dulles had been dickering back and forth with London regarding the operation and payment of tolls through the canal. He had been first on the British side, then on Nasser's side, had proposed a ship-users' association, then opposed his own proposal. The British were disgusted, especially Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd.

On top of this, and after British and French troops followed the Israel army into Suez, the United States had made blunt, blistering demands that the three armies get out. In the case of the British, the demand was made by Eisenhower himself, using what was described as barrack-room language on the transatlantic telephone direct to Anthony Eden. It contributed to Eden's subsequent resignation as prime minister a few weeks later.

Probably not since 1865 and the Civil War had relations between England and the United States sunk so low.

Almost at the height of this crisis, just after the British-French-Israelis had agreed to a cease-fire, Foreign Secretary Lloyd paid a courtesy call on the recuperating Dulles. Lloyd was in New York for the United Nations, and, though almost loathing Dulles, he felt he should call on the American secretary of state.

As Lloyd entered the hospital room, Dulles held out his hand and said: "Selwyn, why did the British wait so long to go into Suez? Why didn't you go through with it?"

Lloyd was speechless.

In contrast to earlier days, the British foreign secretary last week referred to the American secretary of state as "Foster." In his voice was a note of warmth and even friendship.

Arrested in Moscow

Reps. Mel Price, Illinois Democrat, and Jim Patterson, Connecticut Republican, are probably the first members of the U. S. Congress to be arrested by the Soviet government.

Recently they were driving down a Moscow street which was restricted, when a policeman took them in. He didn't know who they were and was a little embarrassed when he found they were United States congressmen. However, he held them in violation of a traffic law, and they deposited three rubles, for which they got receipts.

Afterward, Moscow authorities offered to repay the three rubles and secure return of the receipts. The congressmen refused.

"It's the best souvenir I ever had," Patterson remarked.

Note — In Stockholm, Patterson, Price, and Van Zandt of Pennsylvania picked up evidence, they said, that the Russians had a spy among congressional employees on capitol hill.

MacMillan and Eisenhower

Here are some of the things Foreign Minister Lloyd of England discussed with Secretary of State Dulles in their three-hour talk during the Queen's visit, and which also will be discussed by Prime Minister MacMillan:

The Near East is No. 1 on the agenda. Lloyd told Dulles he was convinced Moscow would not wage any outright war in the Arab states, that Khrushchev had actually warned Syria not to attack Israel. The situation is made to order from a psychological viewpoint for the Russians to point the finger of guilt at Turkey and claim Moscow is the protector of the Arab peoples. The Kremlin, according to Lloyd, doesn't want to change this.

Nikita Khrushchev — The British regard him as much more dangerous than Stalin and Molotov, and told this to Dulles. He is inclined to agree. Stalin, though brutal, was cautious in his relations with the United States. Molotov could be bitter, but was equally cautious. Of course, neither of them had the ICBM. Khrushchev, however, is unpredictable. For one thing, he drinks far too much. Both Dulles and Lloyd are convinced he doesn't want war, but they are afraid he is so overconfident that he might overstep. Lloyd feels Khrushchev will use the ICBM and Sputnik to win psychological victories without firing a shot, just as Hitler did in the Ruhr, Rhineland, Austria, and Czechoslovakia.

U. S. — UK Scientific Cooperation — Prime Minister MacMillan won't push this. Privately, the British and French have pushed it for some time, but the White House has always been cool. Then out of the clear blue last week, in toasting the Queen, Eisenhower proposed exactly what the British-French had been urging — allied scientific cooperation.

MacMillan now regards this as won; fear there will be a bad reaction in Congress later if he says much about it now. There will be a tightening of the Anglo-American alliance in other directions. Any talk that the British will set up a neutral buffer state between the United States and Russia is out. Lloyd made it clear that the place of the UK is alongside the USA in any international showdowns. There will be a big announcement of firm, future solidarity.

Colonel Nasser — Lloyd has expressed the view to Dulles that Col. Nasser isn't happy about Russian penetration of Egypt and would like to get back into the good graces of the West. Economic sanctions have hurt Egypt badly. Some of Dulles' advisers have been saying the same thing. Just how often they will be burnt by Nasser remains to be seen.

Tito Blunders with E. German Recognition

By CHARLES M. McCANN

President Tito of Yugoslavia may have blundered in recognizing the East German puppet government.

In recognizing a regime which owes its continued existence solely to a Soviet Russian army of occupation, Tito deliberately affronted West Germany.

He helped Russia and indirectly helped Communist Poland, which now occupies 38,900 square miles of German territory and wants to keep it for good.

Tito also, by recognizing the puppet regime as a legitimate government, dealt a blow to the hope of reunifying Germany.

Just what Tito's motive was remains uncertain. One thing is sure, however — he did it in what he thought was his own interest.

West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's retort ot Tito's action was to break off diplomatic relations with Yugoslavia.

Relations Broken

In doing this, Adenauer made good his threat, which he had made known to the world, that he would break relations with any government that recognized the East Germans.

But it is evident that Tito did not expect Adenauer to make good his threat. This has been shown clearly by the pained surprise with which his action was received in Belgrade, Tito's capital.

Now Tito seems to be worried about the future of Yugoslavia's trade with West Germany and the substantial trade credits which have gone with it. West German-Yugoslav trade totalled $96 million in 1956. He is worried also whether West Germany will annul the agreement under which it contracted to pay Yugoslavia $72 million for damages that country suffered in World War II.

Incidentally, it was reported from Washington immediately after Tito's recognition of East Germany that Secretary of State John Foster Dulles intended to make a reappraisal of his policy of granting aid to Tito.

Some Question Move

There are some in West Germany who question Adenauer's decision to break relations. But it is hard to see how he could have avoided it.

The position of the West German government is that any country which recognizes the East German regime is recognizing the existence of two German governments and thus making unification harder.

Adenauer also was afraid that if he let Tito get away with it, other countries might follow suit, including especially the Asian "neutralists" and some Arab countries.

Adenauer's breach of relations certainly seemed to make it likely that these countries would think carefully before they followed Tito's example.

West Germany is the most prosperous country in Europe. Its trade and its ability to grant trade credits to needy countries are important.

However slowly it is rearming, West Germany also is potentially the most powerful country in Europe outside of Russia.

Tito is a smart man. It remains to be seen, however, whether in recognizing East Germany he hurt Adenauer more than he did himself.

The Woman's View–

The Chemise Silhouette Has Everyone Confused

By VIVIAN SANDE

NEW YORK (UP) —If you're confused about how you feel about the chemise silhouette, you're not alone. The nation's pattern makers are too.

They're betting the woman who makes her own clothes will like the tapered shift, and they're gambling their designs on it.

But they're not altogether sure of themselves. women en masse being as unpredictable as any one woman can be, and the cost of putting new patterns on the market ranging up to $10,000 a throw.

Not since Christian Dior came out with his post-war "new look" has so revolutionary a style change hit the American fashion scene with such impact. At the same time, never before in the history of pattern making has "being on top of the fashion" been so important in the industry.

Not Behind Times

For the past five or six years, the American woman who sews for herself has shown she is becoming less and less willing to dress behind the times of the woman who buys her clothes. (The post-war "new look" showed up in patterns a year after the fashion caught on in ready-to-wear, and, at that, was too early for the mass-buying pattern market.)

A check with the fourth largest pattern houses in New York which supply most of the 100 - million patterns bought across the country each year, shows they all frankly are wondering how far women will go for the chemise silhouette.

"It will give the pattern industry a shot in the arm," said McCall's patterns' Albert Chaiken, the most definitely optimistic of the designers. "The chemise silhouette already is definitely catching on in the ready-to-wear lines, and it is a natural for home sewing where the greatest problem is fitting."

Simplicity's fashion director, Florence Pullman said, "The chemise look will be big."

Boon To Women

Butterick's chief designer, D Rabineau said, "It is a boon to the woman who wants to whip something together quickly."

"I like it, but not too many women seem absolutely sold on it," said Eleanor Williams, design director of Vogue. "I think it will catch on, especially with the young people who want to be smart."

All four pattern houses said they are including increasing numbers of chemise silhouettes in their late winter and early spring magazines and catalogues. But with reservations.

Their designers all agree the "all-out" chemise will not sell as well in quantity as modified variations on the look: the introduction of some kind of waistline indicator, bloused tops, draped bodices or a low-waisted two piece look.

They also say it probably never will take over a wardrobe.

"It won't ever be the volume dress," said Chaiken. "Most women will limit themselves to one or two outfits."

American women won't want to give up their figures altogether," said Rabineau. "They'll mix chemise silhouettes with the fitted look."

The designers generally agree the chemise silhouette is easier to fit on slender women, and that with improper design and fitting it can become a "sexless sack."

"I don't know what will happen to the Marilyn Monroes of the country," is how Vogue's Eleanor Williams puts it.

ON THE BALL

By CLAIR BROWN

No Season Limit for Non - Contenders

WPIAL president William Dolde, principal at Connellsville Joint High School, stated yesterday that teams not in title contention in the WPIAL can "play football until Christmas night if they want to." . . . Dolde was naturally referring to the recent ruling which stated all postponed games had to played by Nov. 23 . . . This ruling referred only to games involving teams which warranted consideration for title honors . . . The rule stated that games played after Nov. 23 would not be counted when the final point check is made to establish the 1957 champion of the Western Pennsylvania Interscholastic Athletic League . . . In other words, Monessen, Monongahela, Donora and other valley teams now out of the running for the title, can re-schedule their flu-postponed games for any date suitable to both teams.

Arnold Galiffa, Donora's former football great who later starred at West Point, is one of the spearheads behind the Frontier Days celebration in Donora . . . Incidentally, that's the new dial telephone exchange moniker there — FRontier . . . Recent championship cup winners at Nemacolin Country Club were Malcolm (Max) Hulse of Pittsburgh who won the men's championship at NCC and Mrs. G. N. Parent, wife of the Charleroi physician, who won the women's title. Both are excellent golfers who make a habit of posting top scores and winning titles. . . . Art Gob is Pitt's leading scorer with 18 points to his credit while Dick Sherer paces the pass receiving (where Pitt misses All-American Joe Walton, now with the Redskins), with nine passes for 151 yards and one TD.

Grid Pool Operators Upset Last Week

Football pool operators are shaking in their boots after Saturday's upsets like Purdue over Michigan State, Illinois over Minnesota, Maryland over North Carolina . . . The "sharks" really took it on the chin but surprisingly enough we know a guy who picked upsets just for a lark and he was smiling broadly Saturday night . . . Fritzie Zivic can talk himself out of any situation at a banquet program but he apparently can't do as well in private life as he was ordered held for court on a bench warrant when he failed to appear on a reckless driving charge trial, a wire story reported this morning.

That was a very touching half time program at the Rostraver - Bellmar game Saturday night when the senior gridders, band members, cheerleaders and majorettes were honored . . . The "moms and dads" were signally honored as announcer Frank Buscanics called out their names over the PA system and the parents proudly walked out on the field to take their places beside their sons and daughters . . . They were then presented flowers by the cheerleaders who acted as ushers . . . A small but enthusiastic crowd braved the "bad" weather to attend the annual "backyard" clash . . . And they saw a good football game with the Leps giving the favored 'Canes a scare for half the game and kept the Manzinimen on edge throughout the second half.

Queen Distracts Avid Football Student

German Township High School football mentor Lou Rozzi very seldom takes his eyes off a grid game, being an avid pupil of the sport, but he couldn't resist (according to a story out of Uniontown) at the North Carolina - Maryland game and spent considerable time taking movies of Queen Elizabeth and Philip . . . Speaking of Uniontown, ex-star end Chuck Zawacki, who was expected to go great guns at Ohio State has been sidelined with an injury for the remainder of the season, and has been appointed to the Buckeye freshman coaching staff . . . The same fate befell ex-Raider quarterback Dick Berger, now at Allegheny College.

Jefferson 1957 Midget Champions

MHS Foe Proves Not So 'Light'

Johnstown's so-called "light" football team could hold its own with most any Class AA foe according to the weight figures supplied in starting lineup forms from Johnstown this morning.

For example, the line weights show (from end to end) 150, 181, 161, 150, 168, 185, 169 and in the backfield it's 167, 161, 166 and 173.

Averaged out they come to something over 170 in the line and nearly the same in the backfield, which isn't exactly light.

If the Johnnie coaches are as naive about the speed of the team as they are about the weight, the Greyhounds will certainly have their hands full Friday night.

Coach Dave Hart and his aides have already admitted the Johnstown eleven is fast so comparing to this the fact they said the team was light another understatement as to speed may bring out "sputnik-like" backs for Friday night.

Meanwhile, Coach Armand Niccoli is working the 'Hounds hard on a defense to stop the invaders with the locals in high spirits following an impressive 38-13 win over Redstone last Friday.

APERL Honors Softball Kings At Annual Fete

"Anyone who participates in sports programs is a winner," stated Joe Simonin, Pittsburgh Steel Company's Allenport Plant Works Manager in his address to the Allenport Plant Employes Recreation League members at their annual summer banquet last night.

Speaking before nearly 100 of the league members at the Charleroi VFW Post home, Simonin reminded the members that all teams benefit from sports programs not just the winners or champions, regards fellowship, conditioning, etc.

Allenport Plant Personnel Director Tom Johnston emceed a short, snappy program which featured a welcoming address by APERL vice-president Sam Fiorino, Simonin's address, introduction of officers including President Bob Hamer, Secretary Hub Barbose, secretary Junior Keenan and Fiorino and the presentation of awards to the winning No. 5 Building Softball team.

Ed Stark, manager of the winning team, accepted the trophy for copping the softball title preceding awarding of jackets to each member of the team.

Captains of the other teams in the league Biko Milkovich of the first-place Auto Finish (beaten in the playoffs by No. 5), Joe Livingstone of Construction, Cliff Winnett of Electric and Wib Waggoner of No. 111 Building were introduced. Bucky Lutes of Cold Roll was not present due to his Midget Football League team competing here last night.

APERL Board of Director members present were Bill Titler, Paul Pennline, Cliff Moluski, Del Lazzari and Bill Leithold.

Following a special birthday observance for Simonin who filled in for Vice-president of Pittsburgh Steel Carl Breuer, a floor show headed by Billie Falbo was the feature of the remainder of the evening.

Junior High Action For All but Locals

There will apparently be no junior high game involving a Monessen team this week as efforts to fill an open date with one of the opponents postponing games earlier has not borne fruit..

Coach Al Romasco's lads are not scheduled to play until next Wednesday against Canonsburg Junior High.

Considerable Junior High activity is scheduled in the area, however, with Marion at South Huntingdon today, Carroll Township at Turtle Creek, Charleroi at Monongahela, Donora at Clairton.

Tomorrow afternoon Coach Ed Hogan's Rostraver Junior High eleven, defending champions in the Mon Valley Junior High Conference, see action for only the second time this season, visiting Vernon.

In their opener with Marion, the Hoganmen won 23-12 but haven't played (due to the flu epidemic) since that time having games with South Huntingdon, Perryopolis and Fallowfield postponed.

Meanwhile, Coach Kenny Clark's Vernon eleven is just recovering from the flu malady and hopes to be ready, having been able to do a little better than Rostraver in getting games "in" meeting Perry and Fallowfield, losing in close games to both these foes.

The season should actually be ending today and tomorrow for the Junior High elevens but they have been out of action for so long most of them feel like they are just starting the campaign.

Monessen Sportsmen Meet Tomorrow

Monessen's Sportsmen's Association will hold its regular meeting tomorrow night at 8 o'clock to plan for the annual banquet, Secretary Lee McVay announced today.

Eric Crabtree Leads 'Champs' to Victory; Lincoln Tops F-L

Jefferson today wore the crown as 1957 champions of the local Midget Football League succeeding Vocational, the team the Jeffs defeated for the title clincher last night, 21-0.

Prior to the title-clinching contest, Lincoln assured itself of a tie for second place with a 14-7 victory over Frank-Lin.

The game which decided the title-winner found Coach Carmen DeMarco's "champs" scoring in the first, second and fourth quarters with ace back Eric Crabtree again setting the pace as he ran for 63 and 54 yards in the first and second periods.

Keith Bellora scooted over from the 11-yard line for the third tally for the winners and also added an extra point after the initial TD. Fullback Billy Runfola cracked over the final two points after touchdown.

Opening Kickoff Run

Crabtree tallied the first marker on the opening kickoff. He later got away for runs of 73 and 80 yards but both were called back for clipping.

The victory gave the Jeffs a 5-0 record with one more game remaining next week and second-place Lincoln with a 3-2 mark.

Stan Hamlin was the big show in the opener as he brought Coach Dale Simpson's eleven back from a 7-0 deficit after halfback Johnny Popovich, son of the Waynesburg College Coach scored the first touchdown of the game in the third quarter for Coach Mooney Kachmarik's Frank-Lins.

Popovich ran 56 yards to paydirt with Quarterback Bill Tweardy passing to Billy Kachmarik for the extra point.

Shortly after the fourth quarter opened the Lincolns got rolling with a touchdown seemingly in the bag but called back for offside. After a concerted drive, Hamlin scored from the eight and also added the extra point on a plunge.

Hamlin scored again, on a reverse, later in the final period with Frank Destefano running over with the extra point.

Larry Davis had almost tied it up for the Frank-Lin elevens in the third quarter when he was caught from behind on the 12 by Jimmy Saxon following a pass interception at the 50.

Action continues next Tuesday to determine how the other teams finish behind Jefferson. The schedule calls for Frank-Lin vs. Jefferson and Vocational vs. Lincoln games on tap. The Eagles and Chamber of Commerce are asked to work the game assignments as to ushering, collecting, etc.

Parker Rebuilds Steeler Morale; Nickel Injured

PITTSBURGH (UP)—A somewhat deflated Pittsburgh Steelers team conducted its first workout Tuesday after its 35-0 defeat by New York last Sunday.

Coach Buddy Parker faced the job of rebuilding the team's morale for the encounter with the Philadelphia Eagles next Sunday at Forbes Field.

At least one veteran might not be available for the game. Captain Elbie Nickel, who has played in 124 consecutive games, suffered an arm injury in the New York Giant tilt.

X-rays did not reveal a fracture, but the arm was too sore for constant workouts.

Pitt Is Six-Point Underdog

Panthers in A-1 Shape For Irish

PITTSBURGH (UP)—Pitt coach Johnny Michelosen, his team in its finest physical condition of the season, put the Panthers through a rugged workout Tuesday in preparation for Saturday's game with Notre Dame.

Michelosen, who said that during the past two weeks Pitt has had "only one backfield," announced Tuesday the squad would be in its best shape of the year on Saturday.

Backs Dick Bowen and Jim Theodore, out most of the season with injuries, were practicing this week. Bob Stark and Fred Riddle, who had been sick with the flu, were expected to be ready for Notre Dame. In addition, guard Dick Carr will be available after a virus attack.

In other news regarding the Pitt team, end coach and scout Ernie Hefferle brought holding charges against Army and Oklahoma players.

Reporting to the Curbstone Coaches Assn. Tuesday on Pitt's 29-13 loss to Army, Hefferle said: "They do a thing up there at Army that Oklahoma does. They hold you. A game is tough enough to win as it is, but when you have to battle things such as that, it's rougher."

Partner sports publicity director Carroll Cooke, in a meeting Tuesday of the Chicago Football Writers Assn., at Chicago, said the Pitt squad doesn't rate Oklahoma as the No. 1 football team.

"They think one of the Big Ten teams should be," he said. "Our boys thought that Minnesota a year ago was better than Oklahoma this year, even though Oklahoma beat us, 26-0, and Minnesota only 9-6.

Oddsmakers Go Easy After Last Week's Upsets

NEW YORK (UP) — Broadway oddsmakers, stung badly by last week's wave of upsets, were a little more conservative in their "line" for this weekend's college football "form sheet," with Oklahoma, the nation's No. 1 team, the only big favorite.

The Sooners, rolling along behind a perfect 5-0 record this season and 44 straight victories in all, were made 27-point favorites to whip Colorado in a Big Eight game at Norman, Okla. But that was the only big spread game on which odds were offered.

Third-ranked Texas A&M, fourth ranked Duke and Minnesota were made favorites in what are expected to be the "big" games. Duke was picked by seven points over North Carolina State in their Atlantic Coast Conference game at Raleigh, N.C.; A&M was made an eight-point favorite to beat Baylor in a Southwest Conference game at College Station, Tex., and Minnesota was the choice by five points over Michigan in their Big Ten "Little Brown Jug" classic at Minneapolis. Second-ranked Iowa was picked by 16 over Northwestern.

Other close picks include: Tennessee-Maryland, even; Louisiana one over Florida; Ohio State one over Wisconsin; Washington one over Southern California; and UCLA one over Stanford.

Syracuse is a six-point choice over Penn State in their Eastern regionally televised game and Notre Dame is six over Pittsburgh

Upset Rates Purdue Mentor UP Honors

By ED SAINSBURY

LAFAYETTE, Ind. (UP) — He has a habit of starting out as an assistant and winding up as a highly successful head coach.

He is a fundamentalist, a perfectionist and a plain pain in the neck to other Big Ten coaches who never know when his fired-up defense may spring a most unlikely upset.

He's Kenneth Jack Mollenkopf, Purdue, the United Press Coach of the Week after his winless Boilermakers, 21-point underdogs, upended Michigan State, the nation's No. 1 team at the time, 20-13.

Desire To Win

Mollenkopf, a chunky man of 52 who was a football end and baseball catcher at Bowling Green of Ohio, attributed the stunning Purdue victory to line play, sticky fingers and desire.

"I think we had more desire than Michigan State," he reflected. "Our defense did a tremendous job. Our line played real well and that's where we won it. We were fumbling all season but this time we hung onto the ball. And we recovered five of their fumbles, too. We had a bunch of serious kids who believed in themselves.

"Perhaps we could win them all if we played as well as we did Saturday. But we're really not strong."

Mollenkopf started his coaching career at two Ohio high schools, each time as an assistant and each time advancing to the top job. He spent nine years as Purdue line and defensive coach, turning out consistently tough rock-'em lines, before taking over the reins as head man last year. While his 1956 Purdue team won only one conference game, it was significant that it never took a bad beating.

Wants Perfection

The perfectionist in Mollenkopf makes him run the same play in practice four or five times until he is satisfied. The fundamentalist in him brings a warm smile for a hard block or low, savage tackle.

Mollenkopf, lounging in his home near the Purdue campus, said:

"I thought all along we could beat Michigan State. . .well, I think I did, anyhow. But I'd sure hate to play them again next week!"

Slippery Rock Next for Geneva

BEAVER FALLS, Pa. (UP)—The Geneva Covies, unofficial Class B Western Pennsylvania football champions, face Slippery Rock Teachers College in their next encounter.

Coach By Morgan's squad was crowned with the unofficial title after its surprising 34-12 victory last Saturday over unbeaten Westminster.

Slippery Rock, host at the homecoming event, goes into the game with a 1-1 record.

Wilson, Lebaron On Top in NFL For Second Week

PHILADELPHIA (UP)—Tommy Wilson of the Los Angeles Rams and Eddie Lebaron of the Washington Redskins top the National Football League rushers and passers, respectively, today for the second week in a row.

Wilson, with a 42-yard output last weekend, hiked his ball carrying total of 392 yards in 46 carries, an average of 5.1 yards per carry, and held a 61-yard lead over second place Hugh McElhenny of the 49ers.

Clyde Conner, 49ers end, was in first place among the pass receivers with 19 completions, followed by John Carson of the Redskins and Jim Mutscheller of Baltimore with 17 receptions each.

Lebaron completed 38 of 59 passes for 627 yards and six touchdowns.

George Blanda of the Bears, with a touchdown, nine extra points and five field goals and the Bears' Willie Galimore, with five touchdowns, were tied at 30 points behind Mutscheller.

Billy Wells of Pittsburgh continued as the kickoff return leader with a 10.4 yard average.

'Big Thursday' Rivalry Drawing To Close After Three More Games

By TOM PRICE

COLUMBIA, S.C. (UP)— The steady pealing of the 150-year-old University of South Carolina chapel bell was scheduled to begin at noon today, heralding another—the third from last — "Big Thursday" on the football and social calendars.

At 2 p.m., e.s.t., Thursday the South Carolina Gamecocks meet the Clemson Tigers in the 55th renewal of a bitter and unique football rivalry which dates back to 1896. It enables the ladies to show off their new fall fashions and the men to talk politics and other subjects.

The clanging of the bell, its rope tugged by eager freshmen, annually begins at noon the day before Big Thursday and continues for 24 hours. After 1959, however, the bell will remain silent on Wednesday and Thursday of State Fair Week.

Will Be Abolished

At the insistence of Clemson College, which wants the rivalry placed on a home-and-home basis on a Saturday near the end of the football season, Big Thursday will be abolished after three more games. The teams will meet at Clemson in 1960.

Big Thursday began as an added attraction to the state fair. Although no longer connected directly with the fair, the game has always been played on Thursday of Fair Week. Carolina Stadium, across the highway from the fairgrounds, was enlarged this week and the overflow crowd is expected to reach 47,000.

Twice in the long and bitter struggle between the two state-supported schools, the activity on the gridiron has prompted near-riots among the student bodies.

In 1902, South Carolina upset Clemson 12-6 to break a four game Tiger winning streak. A Gamecock victory parade featuring a huge poster of a Gamecock savagely clawing a Tiger set Clemson blood to boiling. Clemson was then a military college and its cadets marched on the walled South Carolina campus with bayonets and drawn sidearms.

Bloodshed Seemed Imminent

Gamecock students rallied to the defense and bloodshed seemed imminent. However, Christie Benet, the 22-year-old Gamecock assistant coach, stopped the riot by leaping to the wall and offering to fight any man selected from the Clemson side to settle the dispute.

After some discussion, a truce committee was formed and bloodshed was averted. But officials decided a cooling off period was needed and the series was cancelled until 1909.

There hasn't been a break since although the classic is scheduled to die altogether after 1959.

In 1946, a near-riot developed when Clemson students wrung a chicken's neck at midfield during halftime after thousands who had bought counterfeit tickets printed by two New York gangsters had stormed the gates and overflowed the stadium.

While it lives, the tradition and rivalry of Big Thursday is just as great as ever. Clemson won 7-0 last year in a game which eventually meant the Atlantic Coast Conference championship and Orange Bowl bid for the Tigers. Clemson leads the series 31-20 with three ties.

Madigan Hundhausen

PAST EXALTED RULER OF ELKS — J. A. Madigan, past exalted ruler of Monessen Elks Lodge 773, has taken up residence at the Elks National home in Bedford, Va. He has already struck up a close friendship with Herman Hundhausen, who was born in Essen, Germany.

Former Elks Chief Finds Happy Home

J. A. Madigan, the oldest living past exalted ruler of the Monessen Elks Lodge 773, has found a new and happy home.

Now in his 80's, Madigan has moved to the Elks national home in Bedford, Va. And he appears pleased with the scenic surroundings.

For almost a half-century, Madigan owned and managed a hotel in the city. He retired a few years back.

Earlier this year, he suffered injuries in a fall which left him a semi-invalid. With no immediate family in the area, Madigan agreed to take up residence at the Elks national home.

He has already struck up a friendship with Herman Hundhausen, another "retired" Elk.

Oddly enough, Hundhausen was born in Essen, Germany, the namesake of Monessen. So he and Madigan have something to talk about right away.

Hundhausen came to this country in 1905 and served as paymaster during the construction of Forbes Field. That has provided more material for conversation between the two men.

Madigan arrived at the home three months ago. Arrangements were made through James Destefano, secretary for the Monessen lodge.

The picturesque home is owned and operated by the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks.

What It Means for Union to Be Expelled from the AFL-CIO

By WILLIAM EATON

WASHINGTON (UP)—A union which is expelled from the AFL-CIO is in much the same position as a man who is dropped from membership in a lodge.

He saves money on dues. But he loses rights and privileges which could be very important to him—particularly when he's in a jam.

The scandal-rocked teamsters and five smaller unions currently are threatened with expulsion as a result of corruption charges filed by the AFL-CIO high command. Booting them out would require a two-thirds vote at the AFL-CIO convention in December.

Major penalties for living outside the AFL-CIO include:

—Loss of strike aid from the federation and its member unions. This could mean refusal to extend loans or to respect picket lines.

—Ban on mutual aid pacts between outcast unions and those in good standing. Joint organizing drives carried on with AFL-CIO affiliates would be forbidden.

—Lack of support in lobbying for special interest legislation. The teamsters must cope with innumerable regulations in the trucking industry, and value this support highly.

—Threat of membership raids by rival unions set up by the AFL-CIO.

Unaffiliated unions find it tough to make themselves heard in national and international affairs.

The AFL-CIO, with its 15 million members, is widely regarded as organized labor's official spokesman. It rarely bothers to speak up for the special interests of expelled unions.

On the other hand, unions stand to gain financially from ouster. Affiliates pay 60 cents a member each year to the AFL-CIO. The teamsters alone kick in about $800,000 annually.

Besides the 1,400,000-member teamsters, smaller unions which may be expelled from the federation are the Bakery Workers, United Textile Workers, Distillery Workers, Laundry Workers and Allied Industrial Workers. The bakers' union claims 160,000 members, but the others each have less than 100,000.

No union has been expelled since the AFL merged with the CIO less than two years ago. Earlier labor history provides no clear-cut answer to the question of what happens to a union which leaves or is expelled from a parent labor organization.

John L. Lewis' United Mine Workers were bounced from the AFL in 1936 when Lewis led the drive to organize the mass production industries in the new CIO.

The mine Workers thrived and Lewis became for a time the dominant figure on the American labor scene. He later pulled his union out of the CIO and briefly rejoined the AFL. He "disaffiliated" from the AFL 10 years ago, and has since been adamantly independent.

Asked if the UMW wants to get into the AFL-CIO, Lewis replies caustically:

"What will it buy us?"

Many labor leaders privately agree that the miners have apparently suffered little from not being a part of the federation. Lewis' strong following and the mine workers' ability to shut off coal production frees the union from dependence on outside help.

The CIO's ouster of 11 Communist-dominated unions in 1949-50 practically eliminated nine of them.

Only one, Harry Bridges' West Coast longshoremen's union, kept up its strength. The Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers lost about half of its members but retained a solid core in the Rock Mountain area.

Leader Signs For Modernization Of Erie Harbor

HARRISBURG (UP) — Gov. George M. Leader has signed a $100,000 contract with a New York engineering firm for preparation of plans for the modernization of the Erie harbor.

The contract with the firm of Parsons, Brinckerhoff, Hall and McDonald, New York City, calls for sub-surface exploration, field investigation, preparation of contracts and supervision of construction. The firm will have 75 days in which to prepare engineering and design plans, with work to begin on the actual construction about next July.

With estimated construction time set at nine months, officials hope to complete the project by April, 1959, in time for the opening of the St. Lawrence Seaway to Lake Erie.

The modernization includes enlarging of Duquesne Pier, and the dredging of a 27-foot channel from the harbor line to dockside.

The estimated cost of the project is $2,250,000, with the city to raise $500,000 through bond issues and the remainder appropriated by the 1957 Legislature.

When completed, the modernization will open the port to ocean-going vessels of maximum seaway draft. At least 500 feet of berthing with the latest cargo handling equipment will be available to shipping, as well as railroad connections to Pittsburgh and the mid-west.

Reparations Offer

TOKYO (UP)—Japan has decided to propose an 800-million dollar plan to settle the long-standing World War II reparations issue with Indonesia, it was reported here today. A cabinet meeting late Monday decided to offer 200-million in "pure" reparations, 200-million in long-term loans and 400-million in the form of technical cooperation schemes, the reports said. Indonesian authorities have said there was no possibility of a change in their demand for 400-million dollars in "pure" reparations.

Mop Aids Escape

CLEARWATER, Fla. (UP)—Pinellas County Sheriff Sid Saunders said today three prisoners escaped his "escape-proof" jail by sawing through bars with mop strings. Saunders said he thought each bar contained a hard steel core which was supposed to turn when pressure was exerted with a hacksaw or file. But the bars were cut, and the three prisoners got out. The escapees used strings from a mop in lieu of a hacksaw or file. They coated the strings with cleaning powder to act as an abrasive.

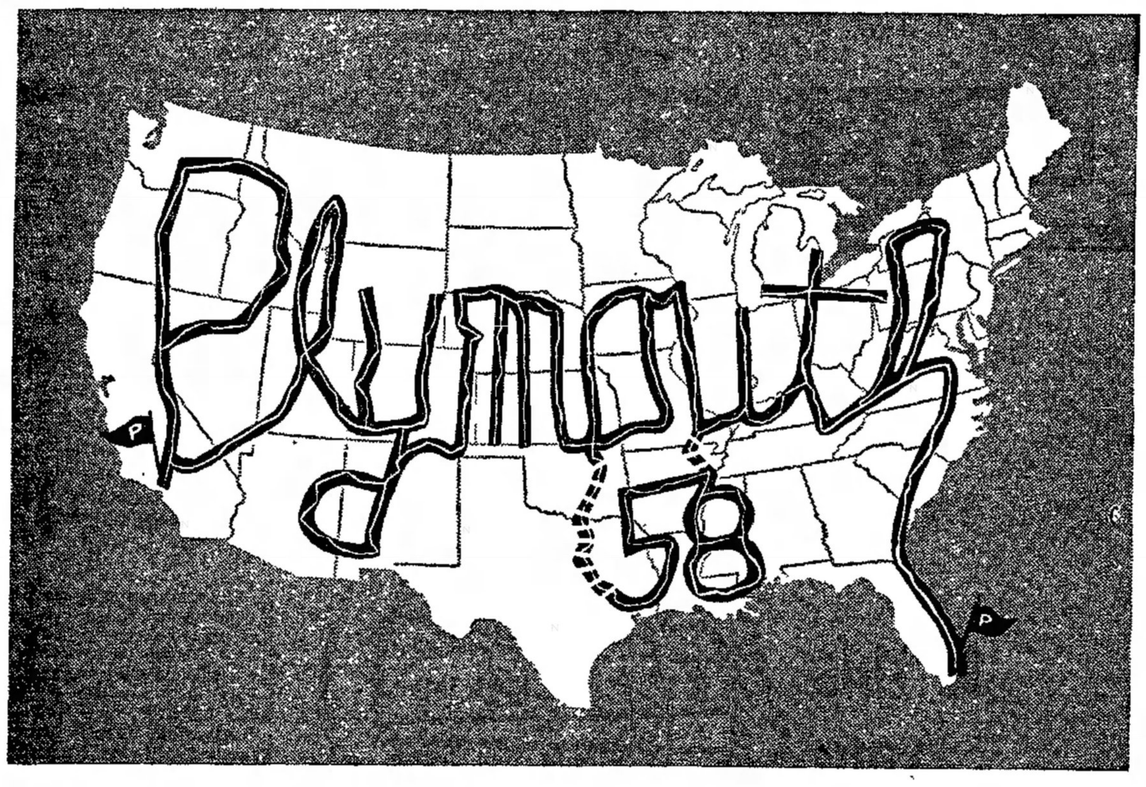
YOUR NEXT PLYMOUTH JUST TAMED THE TOUGHEST TEST TRACK ON EARTH!



That's the "track" scrawled across the map: 58,000 miles . . . more than twice around the world. Six years of driving crammed into 58 days by a brand-new 1958 Plymouth. Read below, see how it affects your future.

When you step into an auto showroom and plunk down hard-earned cash for a new car, you've got a right to more than just surface beauty. You've got a right to a car that's going to stand up under the punishment of day in, day out driving. A car that can go on delivering new-car comfort and economy season after season.

We designed the 1958 Plymouth to do just that. But we didn't settle for endurance in theory. We wanted proof.

See that route outlined above? It spells out "Plymouth '58" across 37 states. We ran a new Plymouth—one of the first stock production models to roll off the lines—across the route three times to roll up 58,000 miles in just 58 days. That's 1000 miles a day!

Here are just a few of the results. And even experienced automotive editors who were there when the Plymouth braked to the final halt were impressed by the results of this extraordinary test.

- Total miles traveled: 58,000
- Total days elapsed: 58
- Number of brake applications: 37,551
- Number of wheel revolutions: 47,732,000
- Number of engine tune-ups: 6

And for all its punishment, the test Plymouth still rode, handled and looked like new. The figures above are just a few of the hundreds collected during this trip. Your Plymouth dealer will be glad to furnish you with lots more details.

You'll be able to see and drive this amazing new Plymouth in a very few days. Wait for it. It's going to show you how much you can expect in a low-price car. And you can expect it only in Plymouth for '58!

Coming November 1 . . . Plymouth for '58

State Auditor General Okays Building Payments

HARRISBURG (UP)—The state auditor general's office said it approved construction payments totaling $851,973 involving alleged violations of the administrative code only when given legal authority.

The statement was the latest in a three-way hassle between the agency, the Property and Supplies and Welfare departments over construction contracts granted for work done at state institutions. The auditor general's office charged the Welfare Department circumvented the Property and Supplies Department and awarded the contracts direct to the contractors.

Deputy Auditor General Alfred T. Novarello said payment would be made when he was advised in writing by the Welfare Department that the contract procedures had been discontinued and would not be resumed, along with a Justice Department opinion authorizing the payments.

In a letter to Deputy Welfare Secretary Thomas J. Brennan, Novarello said:

"We are of the unalterable opinion that the action of the Department of Welfare in this regard should not be countenanced at any other time in the future. The flagrant disregard of established spending procedures is most certainly not indicative of good government."

Ban Inter-racial Film in Atlanta

By UNITED PRESS

Georgia Attorney General Eugene Cook sent a letter of congratulation Tuesday to a solicitor general who halted showing of the controversial movie "Island in the Sun" at a drive-in theater on the outskirts of Atlanta.

Solicitor General Richard Bell had obtained an injunction against the showing after several hundred persons staged a noisy demonstration at the theater entrance when the film was first shown Sunday night. Interracial romance is a theme of the film, which has been banned in Atlanta and several other southern cities.

"Please accept my congratulations upon the appropriate and prompt action you took . . ." Cook told Bell in a letter. Asked to comment further, the attorney general said he would let the letter speak for itself.

Done To Prevent Disorders

Bell said he granted the injunction to prevent possible disorders at the big suburban theater, and not because of the nature of the movie.

It became apparent, meanwhile, that the U.S. Supreme Court's overthrow of Virginia's Pupil Placement Law would become an issue in that state's gubernatorial race.

After the decision was handed down, Republican candidate Ted Dalton, a state senator, urged that a special legislative session be called to draw up new school laws designed to preserve segregation.

Gov. Thomas B. Stanley and Democratic candidate Lindsay B. Almond promptly branded Dalton's demands as "a political gesture." Almond and the governor stood by a policy of "massive resistance" to court - ordered integration.

In Louisiana, a White Citizens Council asked that southern governors be organized in a fight against "creeping integration." The group sent a resolution to that effect to Louisiana Governor Earl Long.

Gov. George Bell Timmerman Jr. of South Carolina denied a claim by the Ku Klux Klan that he supports that organization. "The Klan is hurting the South and the battle of southern leaders against racial integration," he said.

Also in South Carolina a Negro announced plans to run for a seat in the state House of Representatives. John Howard Wrightsen, a Charleston attorney, said he will enter the race in which three white men already have announced as candidates.

Early Halloween

NEW YORK (UP) — Halloween is still more than a week away, but things already were scary in the back pages of the New York Times today. The Times ran one classified advertisement for a lost, shiny black cat named "Spook" and another for a genuine "ghost or similar apparition" to submit to an interview.

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (UP)—The Wisconsin-Upper Michigan Florists Assn. awarded a prize to a floral centerpiece depicting Sputnik created by florist S.M. "Moon" Mullins.

Philip was riding to the Waldorf-Astoria hotel when he was caught in a typical home - bound traffic jam on Lexington Avenue. Told he was five blocks from the hotel, the Prince said to his companions, "Let's get out and walk." Accompanied by a State Department official and five security officers, Philip walked the rest of the way without being recognized.

Flu Claims 270 Lives Throughout Nation; Schools Closing Down

By UNITED PRESS

School officials slammed doors shut on the Asian flu virus today with thousands of new cases reported and the death toll slowly mounting.

Following the pattern begun last summer, Asian flu made heaviest inroads in institutions for the retarded where defenses already were softened.

Despite emergency stopgap measures, calls for additional help, and accelerated vaccination programs, the flu has now claimed more than 270 lives.

At the Dixon, Ill., School for the Mentally Retarded, two new deaths Tuesday brought the epidemic total to nine. And 70 new cases were reported among the helpless inmates.

A 12th death was reported at the Pennhurst School for the Mentally Retarded near Philadelphia, and a similar California institution has reported the death of nine inmates.

Nine-Year-Old Dies

Officials at the Southern Colony Training School near Union Grove, Wis., reported the flu has cropped up in 13 of the 14 cottages on the grounds, and Asian flu complications have taken the life of a 9-year-old boy.

A United Press count across the nation and its territories showed that as of midnight Tuesday 272 deaths could be attributed to Asian flu, other types of influenza, and complications from both of the illnesses.

New York state's 57 deaths topped the nation, followed by Pennsylvania with 52, California with 29, and Michigan with 27.

Elsewhere, deaths in Louisiana numbered 21, Illinois 15, Colorado 10, Wisconsin, Hawaii and Ohio, 9 each, Iowa 8, Utah 7, Kentucky 6, 3 in New Jersey and Indiana, 2 in Connecticut, and 1 each in Arizona, Oklahoma, Oregon, Washington and the District of Columbia.

The disease had increased so in some states it was easier to get the picture in terms of percentages, 15 per cent affected in Colorado and 7 per cent in Wyoming.

Connecticut reported 5 587 new cases Tuesday morning, bringing the state total to 62,629.

Flu closed 13 schools in Oklahoma, including the Oklahoma City suburb of Midwest City where 1,700 students were out. There was some talk of holding Saturday classes in the future to make up lost time.

There were also 25 schools closed in Texas and one private women's college, and 7,500 students were absent from Little Rock, Ark. schools Tuesday. In addition, five regulars and 17 freshman football players were down with flu at the University of Arkansas.

In California, where there was heavy criticism of the slow delivery of vaccine, a bitter note was sounded by the superintendent of the Porterville School for the Mentally Retarded where nine died.

Dr. James T. Shelton said the Public Health Service in Washington announced a big vaccine shipment to California—just as the school's epidemic began to wane.

A "FIRST" — He's none other than the Malay Federation's first ambassador to the U. S., Dr. Ismail Bin Dato Abadual Rahamm, at White House door. And colorfully.

CHICAGO (UP)— Mr. and Mrs. Carl A. Johnson don't mind a bit if people say grandparents are a soft touch. The Johnsons Tuesday won permission to adopt their seven grandchildren.

Russians Attend Rotary Meeting

CUMBERLAND, Md. (UP) — Four members of the Russian embassy in Washington participated in a Rotary meeting and visited a newspaper here Tuesday as part of an 11-city tour to familiarize themselves with America.

During their visit, the group faced the American Flag while Rotarians sang "My Country, 'Tis of Thee," donated $10 to the United Fund and answered questions.

The four were Vladimir S. Lavrov, counselor; Anatoli M. Groyachev and Sergi A. Bogomolov, second secretaries, and Valerian M. Mikhailov, third secretary.

At the Rotary meeting, they listened to Howard J. Wishaupt, Red Bank, N.J., who is conducting a sales promotion clinic here, discuss how business can be improved through courtesy.

Then the Russians, with Lavrov as spokesman, took the speakers' stand and answered questions. Lavrov said it was important for his country and the United States to find a workable peace.

"Why can't we be good friends? You know we were — in the Second World War. Why can't we be good friends in peacetime," he said.

Lavrov said Russia was ready to destroy the Intercontinental Ballistics Missile immediately if all powers worked toward a workable disarmament program. Russia has claimed she has such a weapon.

Regarding the Hungarian uprising, Lavrov said Russia entered the conflict through a treaty with the Hungarian Democratic Republic, which he described as representing the majority of the Hungarian people. He charged the revolt was instigated by outside forces and warned that any future "counter-revolutions" would be repressed.

Lavrov, in answer to a question, said Americans visiting the Soviet get to see more than their Russian counterparts and that sometimes he felt as though he were being followed in the United States.

Following the rotary meeting, the Russians visited the offices of the Times Alleganian Co., publishers of the Cumberland News and Times.

They spent the night at a nearby motel and left for Morgantown, W. Va., this morning. Other stops include Parkersburg and Clarksburg, W. Va.; Zanesville, Cleveland and Warren, Ohio and Sharon, Alltoona, University Park and Williamsport, Pa.

Legion Plans Bonus Drive

HARRISBURG (UP)—The Pennsylvania Department of the American Legion today urged its 947 posts throughout the state to hold special meetings in a drive for voter support of a proposed Korean bonus at the Nov. 5 elections.

Department commander John W. Collins said in bulletins to post commanders that both major parties had payment of a Korean bonus in their 1954 platforms "and their pledges still stand, leaving us know that they are in support of this payment."

Collins asked veterans to get out the vote for the bonus question and also support another proposed constitutional amendment for civilian absentee voting.

Mayor Parente

The Great Hypocrite

Mayor Parente has twice sought to buy the Republican nomination for Mayor and he has twice failed to get it. He even went all the way to the State Supreme Court and here the six judges unanimously turned him down. He simply can't understand why his money, which usually buys everything else cannot buy the Republican votes which he values so much. Having failed, he now goes to the various clubs crying in horror, "Beware of the Republicans, they are a bad lot." How big a hypocrite can one be? But Mayor Parente says the same thing about Democrats who refuse to vote for him. They, too, are a bad lot. They are called Rebels.

The fact is Mayor Parente is neither a good Democrat nor a good Republican. He is just a political opportunist who will play one against the other, to keep himself in power.

Let us stop this one-man rule! If the independent Democrats and the Republicans join forces they can outvote Mayor Parente and end his shameful regime.

UN Demands Reds Account for POWs

By SAMUEL KIM

PANMUNJOM, Korea (UP) — The United Nations Command demanded today that the Communists account for 1,084 Allied soldiers taken prisoner of war by the Communists in the Korean conflict.

Maj. Gen. Homer L. Litzenberg, senior delegate of the U.N. Military Armistice Commission, said the Communists thus far had only "cruelly fabricated" an accounting of 1,084 U.S. prisoners.

He said the Communists must "have some knowledge of their fate." He cited the names of three American servicemen as an example of "only a few instances in which the evidence of eyewitnesses, the report of your own news services, or broadcasts of your side showed beyond doubt that your side had information of the missing U.N. personnel."

The Communists, led by North Korean Gen. Chung Kook Rook, counter - charged that the U.N. was "forceably holding" 98,742 Communist prisoners of war.

These prisoners either were released in South Korea or repatriated to Formosa shortly after the end of the conflict.

Litzenberg, who called today's 79th meeting of the joint Korean Military Armistice Commission, made five separate requests for an accounting of the 1,084 missing men.

"Are these men still being held or where they killed by the forces of your side?" he asked.

"Were they taken outside the area of your side and turned over to other jails?

"Were any of them then turned over to the U.S.S.R.?

"There is a large segment of the American public that firmly believes your side is still holding United States citizens," he said. "Your side's cruelly fabricated accounting only strengthens this conviction."

Rook's only reply was, "We have carried out all the responsibilities" regarding prisoners of war.

Queen's Wardrobe Adequate

NEW YORK (UP)— Queen Elizabeth II averaged close to three changes of costumes a day in her visit to the United States and Canada. By comparison, husband Philip brought a sparse wardrobe. He even showed up twice in the same necktie.

There were no "repeats" for the Queen, who wore 27 costumes in her 10-day visit—most of them designs of her favorite dressmakers, Norman Hartness and Hardy Amies.

The total included eight full-length formal gowns, plus the fabulously jewelled coronation gown in white satin which she wore for the opening of the Canadian Parliament Oct. 14.

Cmdr. Richard Colville, the Queen's press officer said getting the royal couple's clothes to the right place at the right time was a breeze. All of it went along by plane from Ottawa, then to Washington. None of it had been shipped ahead, with the exception of what she wore in Williamsburg, Va.

Philip, a natty dresser who looks more like Madison Avenue than Bond Street, usually wore dark grey or navy business suits —double - breasted. His one "civilian" hat was a snap brim brown felt. On a few occasions, cut come the military uniforms— the black and red uniform of the colonel in chief of the Royal Canadian Regiment, of the uniform of the admiral of the fleet. Done up with all his decorations and medals, he was a handsome sight to see.

Queen Elizabeth rarely wore furs, probably because the weather for most of the tour was more Indian Summer than brisk October. She did crawl into her new mink coat, a smoked grey mutation, for the football game last Saturday between the universities of Maryland and North Carolina and Monday in New York brought out a mink stole.

Transit Talks Scheduled

PITTSBURGH (UP) — Separate conferences with union and management were being scheduled today by federal and state mediators after joint talks in the 10-day Pittsburgh transit strike broke down Tuesday.

Tuesday's meeting between bargainers for the Pittsburgh Railways Co. and 2,200 members of striking Division 85, Amalgamated Street, Electric Railway and Motor Coach Employes, was the first since the walkout began Oct. 14.

Following the seven-hour meeting, federal mediator G. Harry Young and state mediator Joseph Bach announced that instead of trying to bring the sides together, they would talk with each side separately.

The negotiators were just as far apart as when the crippling strike began, despite the personal appeal of Mayor David L. Lawrence to get the dispute settled quickly.

Following the Tuesday meeting, a report of "no progress at all" was issued.

The union is demanding a wage increase of 36 cents an hour in a two-year pact. The company's final offer was 16 cents, plus "freezing" of a current 4-cent cost-of-living adjustment in the basic wage rate.

The strike has deprived the Pittsburgh district of nearly all its mass public transportation facilities.

2 Card of Thanks

GUGLIELMI — We wish to thank the many thoughtful friends and neighbors who were so kind to us during our recent bereavement, the death of our beloved husband and father, Virgil Guglielmi. The ministrations of Father Feeney, the services of Snelby Ferguson, floral tributes, masses, cars loaned for the funeral, those who served as pall bearers and all who aided in our sorrow will be remembered with deep gratitude
Mrs. Virgil Guglielmi and Family.

3 Memorials

In loving memory of our dear mother and grandmother, Mrs. Josephine Checchi, who died 25 years ago today, October 23, 1932.
What would we give her hand to clasp,
Her patient face to see;
To hear her voice, to see her smile,
As in the days that used to be.
But in some sweet day we'll meet again
Beyond the toil and strife.
And clasp each other's hand once more,
In Heaven that happy life.
Sadly missed by children and grandchildren, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Righetti, Mrs. Anthony Vivian, Mr. and Mrs. Emmett Checchi and Families.

In loving memory of our dear brother and uncle, James Ditta, who died one year ago today, October 23, 1956.
One lonely year has passed away
Since our great sorrow fell,
The shock that we received that day
We still remember well.
As we loved you, so we miss you,
In our hearts you are ever near,
Loved, remembered, longed for always
Bringing many a silent tear.
Sadly missed by sister and family, Mr. and Mrs. Cosmo Todaro and Family.

In loving memory of our dear husband, father and grandfather, Andrew Krivak, who died one year ago today, October 23, 1956.
Gone, dear father, gone forever,
How we miss your smiling face,
But you left us to remember,
None on earth can take your place.
A happy home we once enjoyed,
How sweet the memory still:
But death has left a loneliness
The world can never fill.
Sadly missed by Wife, Daughter, Son-in-law and Grandchildren.

Bull Left When It Was Ready

ALVINGHAM, England (UP)—Farmer William Bowers climbed upstairs, went into his bedroom, yawned—and did a quick double take.

There was an 18 - month - old Friesian bull in his room.

Apparently it had nosed open the French windows of the farm house, climbed the stairs, and settled down happily to sleep.

Bowers called in neighbors. They couldn't budge the animal.

An hour later, it stood up voluntarily, sighed, lumbered down the stairs, and returned to the cold farmyard.

Young Pianist Returns To Play with Symphony

Rudolf Firkusny, the brilliant young pianist, returns to Pittsburgh's Syria Mosque Friday evening and again Sunday afternoon to share with William Steinberg and the Pittsburgh Symphony Orchestra one of the major triumphs of the past year.

It was at historic Syria Mosque that Firkusny and the Pittsburgh Symphony recorded their thrilling performance of the Brahms Piano Concerto No. 1 which was released around the world earlier this year. It was Firkusny's first recording with the Pittsburgh Symphony and based on critical and public reaction, it will not be his last.

For his two appearances here this week, Firkusny will play the stirring "Emperor" Concerto by Beethoven on a program that includes work byPezel, Webern and Mozart.

Firkusny's mastery over the keyboard prompted members of the Pittsburgh Symphony to rise up in spontaneous applause during a rehearsal session last season. His startling performance shook the orchestra to its core and, to a man, the members of the famed Pittsburgh Symphony are eagerly looking forward to playing with this amiable, soft-spoken Czech-American again this week.

Sharing the spotlight with the handsome Firkusny will be the introduction to an American audience for the first time of Anton Webern's "Six Orchestra Pieces". This interesting grouping was "discovered" by Steinberg on a recent trip to Europe although the composer wrote the music 47 years ago. The composition will also receive its New York debut by Steinberg and the Pittsburgh Symphony during a November date at famed Carnegie Hall.

Other works on this week's program will include Mozart's Symphony No. 40 in g minor and Pezel's "Tower Music" Suite for brass instruments.

Next week, November 1 and 3, Boris Christoff, the dynamic basso of the Metropolitan Opera will make his Pittsburgh debut with Associate Conductor Karl Kritz and the Pittsburgh Symphony. Tickets for all performances are on sale at Kaufmann's, Gimbels or Hornes in Pittsburgh or at Syria Mosque prior to each performance. Mail orders are accepted at the Kaufmann's box-office of the Symphony.

Pennsy Reports Big Decrease in Net Earnings

PHILADELPHIA UP — A nearly 25 per cent decrease in net earnings for September was announced Monday by the Pennsylvania Railroad.

Earnings for the month were $3,012,116 compared to $4,003,013 during September, 1956, the company announced. They also pointed out an absence of the usual fall upsurge in business, attributed the decline to "the inadequacy of the freight rate increase to meet pyramiding costs."

A drop of 37 per cent in net income was noted for the first nine months of this year compared with that of last year.

Although gross revenue rose 1.9 per cent during September, expenses went up 4.2 per cent, according to company officials. Freight volume in ton miles decreased 5.6 per cent and car loadings dropped 9 per cent for the month of September.

Influenza Symptoms Recognized

By H. N. BUNDESEN, M. D.

With all the recent talk about influenza, I think it's a good time for you to learn a little bit more about what this disease is and how it acts.

Influenza, or the "flu" or "grippe," is an infectious disease caused by one of three known principal types of influenza virus called Type A, Type B and Type C. Scientists now believe there may be a fourth, Type D.

There are many strains within each major classification. Oriental or Asiatic Influenza is believed to be caused by a group of viruses.

Influenza most often strikes healthy young adults. Fortunately, these persons are generally strong enough to fight off the attack without too much trouble. When children or elderly persons are stricken, however, the danger of complications is greater.

It's rather difficult to avoid the disease because it is so easily spread. Persons who are immune to it can transmit the villainous virus by coughing or sneezing.

Easily Recognized

Symptoms of influenza are easy to recognize. But by the time they begin, there's not much you can do about alleviating them.

Generally, you will develop a fever ranging from 101 to 103 degrees, you'll feel weak, have chills, and a severe pain in the head and back. You may feel very nauseated and vomit. You are apt to have a cough, sneeze a great deal and become hoarse.

Usually, after a few days in bed and isolated from the other members of your family, you'll be up and around again, but probably feeling weak. The disease most often runs its course in three or four days.

You should call your doctor, of course. While there isn't a great deal he can do to cure your influenza, he can prescribe antibiotics or sulfa drugs if he suspects there might be complications such as pneumonia.

We have developed vaccines to give at least short-term protection from most strains of influenza virus. But, at best, these vaccines provide immunity only for eight to twelve months.

World of TV—

Jim Backus Escapes Into Radio; Likes It

By WILLIAM EWALD

NEW YORK (UP) — Jim Backus, once chained to a TV series, has escaped into radio. He likes it.

Backus, who once trotted obediently in tandem with Joan Davis in the TV comedy serial, "I Married Joan," uncorked a one-hour daily radio show of his own two weeks ago on the American Broadcasting Network. It combines patter, music and Backus, who also is known to movie fans as the voice of "Mr. Mago" in UPA cartoons.

"I'm not saying I wouldn't do a TV series again," said Backus today. "But I tell you I wouldn't do one unless I owned it. A series like 'I Married Joan' dissipates you as a personality. I played a judge on the show and after awhile, every time my name would come up, every one would think of me as just that — that kindly judge on the Joan Davis Show.

"If I'd want the role of, say, the drunken father in 'Peyton Place,' they'd say—'Oh, no, not Backus. He's the kindly judge.' Or if I was in a movie like 'Rebel Without A Cause' when my face would come on the screen, you could hear the audience whispering — 'That's the kindly judge.' I was so lovable for a while there, it was kind of sickening."

Backus' radio caper gives him a chance to be himself for a while. "Radio can do things that TV can't do," he said. "A show like this gives me a chance to take a crack at topical things. We can make jokes about Mike Todd's party the day after it happens.

"Another thing radio does that TV can't is paint a word picture. I still think, for example, that Jack Benny is funnier on radio than TV. Your mind creates a much funnier picture of Benny's fabulous vault than your eye ever can give you.

"And radio gives you a chance to experiment more. You don't have to worry if you miss once in a while. The world doesn't collapse."

Backus believes only the bland can survive a long TV campaign. "The only successful people on TV are those who admit they have nothing to bring to it," he said.

"You know the ones I'm talking about — the ones who go on and on, yet have no specific talent. You take that one singer who doesn't even bother to learn the lyrics—he just reads 'em off his teleprompter. It's a crazy medium. The kind where if you forget the lyrics, everybody gives you a big hand.

Too Much Relaxing?

"And those things they call musicals where the relaxed girl singer — you have to be relaxed, they're all relaxed — comes out and sings a couple of songs and then they have a couple of relaxed guests come out and read the teleprompter. This is a musical?

"The strangest thing about TV to me is that the best people are always cancelled. They don't last. Like Sid Caesar. He's great. So he's cancelled. Naturally. What else?"

Backus does like panel shows like "What's My Line" where he can be himself. And he likes Broadway. "I'd just love to do a play," he sighed, "A really good role on Broadway is what I want now. But I wish they'd hurry up and offer me one before I get so old they're giving me parts Edmund Gwenn can't do."

In Hollywood—

Zsa Zsa On Diet Of Dates

By VERNON SCOTT

HOLLYWOOD (UP) — Zsa Zsa Gabor is on a date diet—not the kind that grow on palm trees nor the calendar variety, but the two-legged type who squire her to the Sunset Strip night spots.

The Hungarian beauty, one of filmtown's most sought - after glamour girls, is rationing her time.

"From now on two nights a week are for men. Five nights are for study," she says.

Zsa Zsa is serious about her fast-rising acting career and has been studying with her friend, actress Agnes Moorehead. In addition, she spends long hours of analytic watching in front of her television screen.

Looks, Diamonds, Romances

"I've been known for my looks, my diamonds and my romances. Now I want to be admired for my acting," Zsa Zsa smiled.

Word has been getting around, and Zsa Zsa has been deluged with film and television scripts. If she accepted half the deals the colorful Gabor gal could buy all the diamonds she wanted.

She recently returned from London where she played opposite Shakesperian actor Anthony Quayle in "The Queen and Smith." London's film row says Zsa Zsa has arrived as a strong dramatic actress. Hollywood got the message with her performances in "Death of a Scoundrel," and "The Girl in the Kremlin."

All this doesn't mean Zsa Zsa is forsaking her reputation as a glamour girl. She is as incapable of entering a room unnoticed as would be the Santa Fe Superchief.

No One Glamour Girl

With Marilyn Monroe inactive in the East, Grace Kelly retired in Monaco and Ava Gardner self-exiled in Spain, La Gabor is Hollywood's current number one glamour girl.

"Glamour and being a personality are good," she admits. "So are diamonds. Husbands are good—or at least some of them. But it is also good to be a good actress."

Legislators Split on Exchanging Nuclear Secrets with Britain

WASHINGTON (UP)— A sampling of key lawmakers indicated today Congress may be willing to change the atomic energy law to permit greater sharing of scientific secrets with Britain and other European allies.

Sentiment was by no means unanimous. Some legislators emphasized they would support changes only if carefully safeguarded.

But a high administration official insisted "there is room for more exchange" of atomic information between America and Britain.

This official, who will participate in upcoming talks between President Eisenhower and British Prime Minister Harold MacMillan, told United Press, "it doesn't make sense to keep from our friends information our enemy has already got."

Plans for greater pooling of Western scientific talent and know-how was expected to be a key part of the talks between Eisenhower and MacMillan. U. S. participation in such plans probably would involve changes in the basic Atomic Energy Act which now forbids disclosure of secret weapons data.

Views of key legislators were obtained by the United Press in a survey.

Rep. Melvin Price (D-Ill.), a member of the House-Senate Atomic Energy Committee who recently returned from a visit to Russian nuclear energy plants and other European scientific facilities, said he thinks the "general idea is good."

Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey (D-Minn.), a member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said he was "absolutely" in favor of a broader sharing with allies.

Congress Might Respond

Rep. Chet Holifield (D-Calif.), a member of the Joint Atomic Energy group, said if the President "furnishes firm leadership in the field. I believe there will be a favorable response" from Congress.

But influential Sen. Styles Bridges (R-N.H.), chairman of the Senate GOP Policy Committee and a top-ranking member of the Senate Armed Services Committee, said he was on the "reluctant side."

Sen. Homer E. Capehart (R-Ind.), a member of the Foreign Relations group, said "I'd certainly be willing to share more knowledge to a degree."

Important Find

CAIRO (UP) — Scientists today reported an important new archaeological find in the discovery of ancient tombs near Tura El Asmant dating back 5,000 years to the first Egyptian dynasty. They said its historical importance was that the tombs were built of limestone, an architectural feat previously believed to have been first accomplished in the second dynasty. All previous first dynasty remains have been made with mud and bricks.

THE PASTOR IS PAYING OFF — No, Rev. Joe Bellamy is not paying off an election bet by eating a picnic lunch atop his church tower in Liberal, Kan., but it's about the same thing. During a Sunday school attendance rally he promised to picnic up there if attendance topped 300. Well, 368 showed up. Average had been about 200.

Equitable Rate Boost Suspended by PUC

HARRISBURG (UP)—The Public Utility Commission today suspended a $4,287,000 annual rate increase proposed by the Equitable Gas Co., Pittsburgh, for its 235,000 consumers in Allegheny, Armstrong, Westmoreland, Greene and Washington counties.

The commission ordered an investigation of the proposed boost, being sought in two parts.

The major portion of the proposal, $4,015,000, was filed to become effective Dec. 4, but was delayed for six months until June 4 next year by the PUC order. The second part, a $272,000 boost, was scheduled to become effective Nov. 16, and was also suspended for six months to May 16, 1958.

The city of Pittsburgh has filed protests against both parts of the company's proposed increase.

Equitable said the larger boost is needed to meet increased cost of operation, including labor and material. It said the smaller boost was designed to offset the higher price of wholesale natural gas purchased from a pipeline supplier.

C. J. Mulholland, Equitable vice president, said the proposed increase would raise average bills of home-heating customers $1.08 a month, and 51-cents for those using gas for other than house heating.

The PUC also received the city's complaint against a $969,000 annual rate hike made by Equitable Sept. 3, allowed by the commission to cover higher costs of gas purchased by the company from another wholesale supplier.

The commission said it was likely that the suspended two-part increase would be consolidated with hearings on the recent boost opposed by the city.

Former Fayette Banker Guilty of Evading Taxes

PITTSBURGH (UP) — Milo K. Ruse, former president of the First National Bank of Point Marion, Fayette County, was found guilty Tuesday of evading $6,226 in federal income taxes.

A federal court jury of six women and six men deliberated more than five hours to reach the verdict. Sentence was deferred by Judge Herbert P. Sorg pending a report by probation officers.

Ruse, of Bobtown, Greene County, was charged with understating his income in 1950 by $12,826 and in 1951 by $3,528 to avoid payment of taxes.

Defense attorney Robert A. Jarvis, in his final argument, asked the jury to study the case on its own merits and not to consider Ruse's plea of no defense three years ago to a charge of embezzlement of bank funds.

Ruse, the defense counsel argued, merely intended to save on taxes, not to cheat.

"Sure, he's a banker," Jarvis said, "but he's not a tax expert."

Following the verdict, Ruse, who has been calm throughout the trial, held out his hand and congratulated prosecutor, Hubert I. Teitelbaum, first assistant United States attorney.

Pay Television Criticized by NBC President

PITTSBURGH (UP) — Robert W. Sarnoff, president of the National Broadcasting Co., said today that pay television "is hostile to the public interest."

"The public would have to pay for entertainment now free; and in the process might lose all the other benefits of free television," Sarnoff said.

Speaking at a lunch given by William Block of WIIC, NBC's newest television affiliate in Pittsburgh, Sarnoff said that pay TV would be able to use box office revenue to outbid free television for programs, even if the pay system had smaller audiences.

He said this would result in "a movement of the major attractions from free to pay television."

"Instead of being available to everyone without charge, the programs would be available only to the minority of the public willing and able to pay for them," he said.
